CHATEAU ORLANDO x CAFÉ DECO

A capsule collection comprising two t-shirts, two tote bags, two posters and a handmade ceramic brooch

This September Chateau Orlando collaborates with Café Deco, a bar, restaurant and wine shop opened in 2020 by Anna Tobias and the 40 Maltby Street team on Store Street in London's Bloomsbury.

The collection celebrates several of Café Deco's iconic dishes including fresh radishes and egg mayonnaise. These dishes have been rendered in colouring pencil by Luke, and printed on cotton t-shirts and tote bags. In addition, Luke has created two limited edition posters, which are signed and numbered by him. A special ceramic radish brooch handmade by Luke's neighbour Jenny Knight, a potter and artist, completes the collection.

"Although I live in the countryside, whenever I'm in the city I make a beeline for Café Deco. The elegant, buzzy and light-filled room, with its pink bar and bentwood stools, is exactly the sort of place I want to spend time in, and here is where I arrange to meet my friends for Negronis, long lunches and dinners. Anna's simple, delicious food is the kind I always want to eat and I read her ever-changing menus with relish: a little something on toast, leeks vinaigrette, crab and chips, peach pie and cream, treacle pudding... Deco to me feels like a very English place to eat, but one that brings together influences from across Europe, full of colour and brightness, and this very much chimes with my vision for Chateau Orlando. This marks our first collaboration with a restaurant, and I can't think of one I'd more like to be working with."

Anna Tobias's cooking was shaped by iconic chefs such as Margot Henderson, Ruth Rogers and Jeremy Lee. The very good food which Anna makes at Café Deco is simple and honest, a celebration of the best available produce, clean flavours and unfussy plating.

The Chateau Orlando x Café Deco collection will be available online at chateauorlando.com, and at Café Deco from September 15th.

A Chateau Orlando trunk show will be running downstairs at Café Deco on 16th and 17th September. Visitors will be able to explore current and archive Chateau Orlando collections, along with the Chateau Orlando x Café Deco collaboration.
